Mayor's Message

Mayor
Cr Elizabeth Nealy

Have your say on what we have planned

Council is working on five important plans that will guide our work over the next ten years and we want your input to make sure we are on track.

Many of you have already told us your priorities and concerns as part of our Banyule Futures project, when Council officers conducted a series of community consultation sessions and workshops last year.

Then there was the Banyule ThinkTank, in which 50 community members worked with us to set priorities for Council.

We listened to what you told us and feel we are on track with your concerns as we have drafted these plans, including the Budget 2025 – 2029. Please tell us what you think. Feedback is open until Sunday

6 April. Turn to page 5 for more information.

Advocacy success

We've had a win in our work advocating for the Banyule Community. Council has won a Federal Government grant of $2.3 million to convert to 100% electricity at WaterMarc aquatic centre in Greensborough.

This will reduce Council's greenhouse gas emissions by 37% and bring us much closer to our target of having zero emissions from Council operations by 2028. Read the full story on page 3.

Giving local

I had a wonderful day visiting the community organisations that received funding in the first round of grants from Banyule Community Fund.

I'm proud that this fund, set up last year by Council with the support of the Australian Communities Foundation, is already making a real difference in our community.

Read the story on page 9 and please consider making a donation.

Changes to dog poo bins

Don't be alarmed if you see a dog poo bin removed from your local park. When you clean up after your dog you can put it in any Council rubbish bin. Read more on page 10.

Autumn events

It's been an amazing summer of community events in Banyule, starting with our biggest-ever Carols by Candlelight in December. There's plenty more to keep you entertained and connected through autumn and winter and most of them are free events. Read on to find your next outing.

Council Meetings

 Upcoming dates:
24 March
14 April

 From 7pm

Banyule City Council is proud to acknowledge the Wurundjeri Woi-wurrung people as Traditional Custodians of the land and we pay respect to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Elders, past, present and emerging, who have resided in the area and have been an integral part of the region's history.

Our community is made up of diverse cultures, beliefs, abilities, bodies, sexualities, ages and genders. Council is committed to access, equity, participation and rights for everyone; principles which empower, foster harmony and increase the wellbeing of an inclusive community.

WaterMarc is on the way to 100% renewable energy

Council has secured a $2.3 million grant to electrify WaterMarc and transition to 100% renewable energy in Banyule's largest aquatic centre.

It will save our community money, significantly cut emissions and bring us closer to our goal of net zero corporate emissions by 2028.

Federal Minister for Climate Change and Energy Chris Bowen and Jagajaga MP Kate Thwaites announced the new funding at WaterMarc last month.

The grant from the Australian Government's $100 million Community Energy Upgrades Fund is a fantastic result for Council's advocacy efforts.

Only 58 out of 165 applications were successful in this round of funding.

We'll save more than $465,000 a year on energy bills and significantly lower our emissions.

WaterMarc's four gas boilers heat its pools, public areas and the four-storey office building above. With this funding, Council will replace the boilers with electric heat pumps. It will be Australia's first integrated aquatic and office precinct electrification.

We cannot reach our target of zero corporate emissions by 2028 without electrifying all three of Banyule's aquatic centres, which together use 93% of the gas used in all Council operations.

WaterMarc uses more than three times as much gas as either Ivanhoe Aquatic or Olympic Leisure Centre. The new heat pumps will be up to five times more energy efficient than WaterMarc's gas boilers, reducing total emissions from Council operations by 37%.

Welcoming our new employees

We're excited to welcome 12 new employees as part of Banyule's 2025 Inclusive Employment Program.

The program is designed for people facing barriers to employment. They receive six months' work at Council in a role tailored to their interests and strengths, as well as personalised coaching and professional development.

The new employees met with Banyule councillors, managers and executives during their induction last month.

Building a better Banyule

We're working on a range of road and construction projects to build an even better Banyule.

Inclusive employment for business success

Banyule's employment programs and local companies are working together to increase job opportunities for everyone.

When Marjan Marjani came to Australia as a refugee from Iran, she wanted a safer, better life for herself and her young child.

"Starting afresh in a new country was daunting. I had to learn a new language, adjust to a new culture and understand how to navigate the job market. I knew that securing a job was crucial to improving our lives," she remembered.

After completing Banyule's Inclusive Employment Program in 2021, she applied for a job at Cleaning Melbourne, a local company that values diversity and inclusivity in the workplace. She now works in their procurement team.

Inclusive employment in action

Cleaning Melbourne's employment practices are rooted in the experience of company founder David Gagovski, whose mother experienced mistreatment and underpayment working as a cleaner after migrating to Australia.

"This experience shaped a dedication to fair, respectful employment practices that prioritise inclusivity and equity," said human resources manager Sohan Boralessa.

To reach diverse and underrepresented groups, the company uses inclusive language in job ads and descriptions, avoids overly restrictive experience requirements and has flexible interview options.

"Our approach emphasises fair and unbiased evaluation, ensuring candidates are assessed on their skills, potential and alignment with our company values."

The approach has also paid off in better business performance, productivity and operational resilience.

"Additionally, customers appreciate our commitment to inclusivity, strengthening our brand reputation as a socially responsible and ethical company."

When I joined Banyule's Inclusive Employment Program, things started to change. It not only gave me the skills to secure a job, it instilled in me a sense of self-worth. I was excited to take on the challenge and apply what I had learned.

Barrbunin Beek Mums and Boorais Yarning Circle

A group for local Aboriginal mothers and their babies.

The program aims to enhance First Nation's mums connection to their Boorais (babies) by strengthening their links to culture, community, knowledge and support.

The group is an opportunity for Aboriginal mums to develop relationships with each other. One mum shared that "Coming to Yarning circle every week is an opportunity to feel supported culturally and gives me space to learn and listen to the Aunties and other Mums."

Aboriginal mums learn about baby development, sleep settling, get health advice and ensure their babies have the best start in life.

This year we are excited to partner with Relationships Australia to offer families a baby massage program based in cultural knowledge. The group is supported by an Aboriginal Elder, Barrbunin Beek staff, the Mercy Hospital Aboriginal Health Team, a midwife and Maternal and Child Health Nurse.

Banyule Community Fund gives local

The Banyule Community Fund has awarded its first round of grants, donating to groups that support the Banyule community, as promised.

Five local organisations received a total of $15,000. Grant applications were reviewed by an independent panel of five community members, four Council officers and the Banyule Citizen of the Year.

BANSIC Foodhub

BANSIC provides emergency relief and support services to people experiencing significant disadvantage. Its Foodhub in Heidelberg West distributes meals, pantry supplies and fresh produce at no cost. Demand for this service has grown from 500 food parcels per month in 2022 to more than 1350 this year. A Banyule Community Fund grant of $4000 will purchase fruit and vegetables to make food parcels for individuals and families in crisis.

Open House Backyard Sports

Backyard Sports at Malahang Reserve in Heidelberg West provides community connection through social soccer, football and basketball. There is a bike maintenance hut and coffee cart, both of which provide job training. With its grant of $3200, Open House will host four school holiday sessions with sports, food and a DJ.

Footscape care kits

Footscape provides footwear, foot care kits, socks, orthotics and foot health education for disadvantaged people with foot problems. Its $3000 grant will go towards 150 foot care kits.

Heidelberg SES

The Heidelberg Unit of the Victorian State Emergency Service is a volunteer emergency response group. Its members attend around 1000 call-outs each year, providing emergency help during natural disasters, storms and flooding. They assist other emergency agencies in complex emergency situations, conduct search and rescue operations and provide community education. Their $2500 grant will purchase battery-operated tools that are safer, lighter, quieter, cheaper to run and more reliable than fuel equivalents.

Olympic Neighbourhood House

The Project Reboot: Laptops Revived program at Olympic Neighbourhood House has provided refurbished laptops and training for 250 disadvantaged residents. Recipients have access to an IT hub with free Wi-Fi, printing and volunteer assistance. The grant of $2300 will provide 40 refurbished laptops to Banyule community members.

Changes to dog waste bins

Did you know? Dog waste can now go in any general rubbish bin (red lid) in Banyule's parks and reserves.

We're phasing out green dog waste bins in parks and adding new, larger 240-litre general waste bins in parks where they're needed.

This will mean a more efficient and cost-effective waste service.

Because of the switch to general waste bins, we can now transition to a mechanical waste pick-up service for all park bins. This reduces manual handling and makes the job safer for our staff.

We will still provide dog waste bags in high-use locations. The bags will be attached to general waste bins and refilled on a regular basis.

Thank you for your help to keep Banyule clean and beautiful.

Don't forget – register your pet!

All cats and dogs over the age of three months must be microchipped and registered with Council. Animal registration renewals are due by 10 April.

For more details, visit banyule.vic.gov.au/AnimalRego

Did you know that Banyule has more than 13,000 dogs and 5500 cats registered!

Easter waste tips

You shouldn't put all your eggs in one basket, and you shouldn't put all of your household rubbish in one bin. Here are some egg-cellent tips on how to recycle right this Easter.

Aluminum foil such as the main wrapper of Easter eggs can be recycled. Collect all the wrappers together to make a tennis-sized ball before placing it in your recycle bin. Aluminum cooking trays can also be recycled.

Cardboard boxes and hard plastic Easter egg boxes can go in your recycling bin.

Toys which can sometimes be found in Easter eggs need to go in the rubbish bin, along with ribbons, bows, bells or cellophane.

3. Compostable coffee cups belong in which bin?
4. What is the name of a waste category that is dangerous and cannot go in any kerbside bin because of fire risks in bins, collection vehicles and at processing facilities?

No late-night mischief for Banyule cats!

Banyule's new nightly curfew for cats came into effect on 1 February. Cats must be contained on your property between 7pm and 7am.

There is a six-month enforcement amnesty on the new rules, giving cat owners a chance to temporarily avoid fines while they and their cats get used to the curfew.

There are some areas where cats are not allowed at any time. These are environmentally sensitive areas such as native bushland and water bodies.

- Andrew Yandell Habitat Reserve - fenced areas

Conserving our creek

Platypuses could return to Darebin Creek in Ivanhoe if these hard-working volunteers have their way.

They're working with Banyule rangers and the Darebin Creek Management Committee to restore the creek front in Napier Waller Reserve in Ivanhoe. With the help of a Banyule environment grant, they've planted more than 1000 plants in the reserve.

The reserve named after the artist Napier Waller, who lived here from 1922 until his death in 1972, is part of a vital wildlife corridor connecting the creek and the Yarra River (Birrarung).

While the reserve is habitat for a variety of wildlife, weeding and revegetation of the eroded creek banks will increase biodiversity and help reduce damage from regular floods. Platypuses have been spotted further down the creek in Heidelberg West and the group hopes to tempt them into Ivanhoe as the creek becomes more healthy.

We are working towards a healthier Banyule by improving our green spaces. The urban forest comes in many forms across Banyule, including nature strips such as the one pictured.

We're developing new nature strip planting guidelines. See page 4 for more on the guidelines and ways to share your thoughts on how we can enhance Banyule's urban forest.

Residents tell me they value Council's work on roads and paths, making it safer for cars, people and bikes to move around.

See page 5 for capital works around Griffin, such as the recent crossing upgrade at Hawdon Street, Heidelberg (near Darebin Street).

Please let me know if you have suggestions.

The Hub is run by volunteer members like Sophie, Sally and Gilly, pictured. They offer singalongs, mahjong, games, social groups, dances and an orchestra, which will conclude a Council-funded rehearsal program with a concert on Sunday 3 August.

The $250,000 hall renovations include accessibility improvements, toilets and a new kitchen.

I was thrilled to attend training at Banyule City Soccer Club and see the thriving community this club has built. Staying active over winter is important for my family and I have the privilege of coaching my daughter's U12 team at Banyule Football Club.

Community sport has great benefits for mental and physical health. That's why Council invests in Banyule's sports facilities, many of which are also used by non-sporting groups.

These local clubs offer winter fun and community connection for juniors and seniors: Banyule City Soccer Club (Banyule Flats Reserve and Yallambie Park), Banyule FC (Beverley Road Reserve), Heidelberg FC (enjoying the new playing surface at Warringal Oval). If a run or walk in the park is more your thing, Parkrun kicks off at Warringal Parklands at 8am every Saturday.

Anthony Beale Reserve was buzzing when I popped in to check progress on the pavilion rebuild recently.

It's a popular spot for active and passive recreation for the whole community, including our four-legged friends. Regular dog walkers there have developed a strong sense of community and their dogs have built friendships too!

Work on the pavilion is progressing well and is due to be completed around the middle of the year. We've installed a temporary toilet in the carpark while the pavilion amenities are being renovated.

I'm also pleased to report that work will soon start on a new footpath along Karingal Drive from Sherbourne Road to Nerreman Gateway in Briar Hill.

We're working closely with residents and traders on capital works around Bakewell, including Watsonia Town Square (to be completed this year).

We are also raising resident concerns about North East Link construction and advocating for action on dust, noise and parking.

We're encouraging NEL to create more parking for workers to ease congestion in residential areas.

NEL was required to provide offset parking for commuters near Gabonia Avenue Reserve in Watsonia.

Please get in touch if you have concerns. It won't be long before we can enjoy the benefits of these major works for many years ahead.

Congratulations to the new and returning committee members of the Bell Street Mall Traders Association.

Built in 1956, The Mall was the first of its kind in Australia. Its original features could make its revitalisation exciting (see page 4 to get involved).

The structure of the Mall is that all the shops are privately owned, while the surrounding pavement areas and carparks are owned by Council.

The Traders Association's role includes planning promotional activities and community events and managing the budget. It also works with Council on waste management, maintenance and cleaning.

Importantly, all committee roles are voluntary and members run their own businesses at the same time.

The Urban Agricultural Education Centre at Bundoora Secondary College is looking fantastic.

A joint project of the school, Banyule Council, the Victorian Government and community food network Local Food Connect, it has food gardens, livestock, aquaculture pools, community gardens and facilities for meetings, community markets and education.

Local Food Connect has contributed $250,000 to the project and will lead community programs such as food gardening, classes and produce markets. I visited with Emmeline and Chris to see the new pergola that will soon be surrounded by gardens. Check out Local Food Connect on Facebook to see the school's thriving urban farm or visit localfoodconnect.org.au to learn more and get involved.

I admired the view from upstairs at the Macleod Park Pavilion site recently. I learnt about slab techniques to minimise concrete use along with under-slab insulation for comfort and sustainability.

The $3.8 million project, jointly funded by Banyule Council and the Victorian Government, includes female-friendly changerooms, a kitchen and undercover spectator areas. It's due to open early next year.

Are you impacted by North East Link construction? With councillors from other affected wards, I'm advocating for residents on issues like parking and noise. Also, further parking restrictions are being rolled out. You can also contact NEL directly at community@northeastlink.vic.gov.au

luk season

The start of an epic journey to the sea luk (eel) season has arrived and temperatures are dropping.

luk have started migrating down the Birrarung (Yarra River) on their journey towards spawning grounds in the Coral Sea, off northern Queensland.

In preparation for this epic journey, the young luk have grown, their eyes have enlarged and their digestive systems have shrunk.

As luk migrated downstream, Wurundjeri people trapped them in billabongs, eel traps and weirs, where they were harvested by hand or with lightweight spears made from Woolip (woolly tea tree) and Burgan (white tea tree).

Days and nights are of equal length around the equinox (20 March) and the star Lo-An Tuka (Canopus) can be seen in the south at sunset.

Binap (manna gum) is blossoming with a beautiful white flower with a yellow centre. Its wood is used to make shields. Small quantities of sweet crumbly gum (manna) are exuded from damaged leaves. This is collected for eating.

This season leads into Waring (Wombat) season from April to July, when Waring become more active in the daylight and Sagittarius rises in the southwest before sunset.

Banyule's wetlands

Banyule Swamp, Banyule Flats Reserve

Wetlands are unique ecosystems in which water saturates or floods the ground permanently or seasonally.

Wetlands come in many forms such as marshes, swamps and billabongs or even whole floodplains. They are a crucial part of our environment and they help:

- Store water and prevent floods. Wetlands are nature's sponge, soaking up excess water and reducing flood risks.
- Filter pollutants and sediments from water, keeping our rivers and lakes clean.
- Make many homes for wildlife. Wetlands are crucial for biodiversity.
- Trap carbon, making them powerful allies in the fight against climate change.

Banyule is home to many wetlands. One of the most well-known is the Banyule Swamp at Banyule Flats Reserve. The swamp sits in a natural low-lying area. In the early 1800s it was drained for market gardens and it still had cattle grazing on it in the 1990s.

In the late 1960s, some water was returned and the southern edge of the swamp was changed so that it could eventually be refilled.

Warringal Conservation Society and Council have worked together for many years to revegetate the Banyule Flats Reserve, adding to its biodiversity value.

Banyule Swamp hosts more than 150 bird species, some rare or threatened in Victoria. Others are migrants, such as the Latham's Snipe. One of the most interesting looking species is the pink-eared duck, with its black and white stripes, pink markings on the side of the head and large square-tipped grey bill.

Enjoy our local biodiversity by heading out with some binoculars and trying to spot these birds and other fascinating species at Banyule Swamp or a wetland nearby.
